The Buyer pays VAT for the services he obtains. 10% on Appraisals, Legal fees, Surveying fees.

Buying property

in The Bahamas if you are non-Bahamian

Under 2 acres – single-family use

If you are a non-Bahamian citizen and you don't own property already, you only need to register your investment with the government if:

1. You are buying less than two acres.
2. You are buying a home for a single family that sits on less than two acres of land.

Over 2 acres or 2 acres other than single-family use

If you are purchasing for anything other than single-family use, or the property is over two acres in size, you need to apply for a Government permit to purchase the property.

There is a small fee for this permit.

Registering your investment with the Foreign Investment Board insures that you will be able to remit the net proceeds of sale outside the Bahamas in the currency of the original investment.

You also need to register your investment with the Exchange Control at the Central Bank of The Bahamas.

A home owner's residence card does not give you permission to work. However, it makes it easier to enter every time you return to The Bahamas. This is NOT a permanent residence card.

You can apply to the Director of Immigration to get a homeowner's resident card. If Immigration is satisfied that you are a person of good character and able to support yourself and your family, they will issue a card for a fee.

Visas are not required of citizens of the United Kingdom or Canada, provided their stay does not exceed 3 weeks and they have a return ticket leaving the Bahamas.

Visas are not required of US citizens for staying less than 8 months.

Bahamas Immigration Department permits are needed to reside, work or engage in any business.

There are two categories of permanent residency:

1. Permanent residency with the right to work
2. Permanent residency without the right to work.

One of the criteria for permanent residency is the investment of a minimum of $750,000 in The Bahamas.

This investment may take the form of the purchase of real property with a minimum value of $750,000. You do not automatically get the right to work.

Investments of $1,500,000 will receive a speedy consideration.

Applicants must be of good character, show evidence of financial support and commit in writing that they wish to live permanently in the Bahamas.

Wives and dependent children (under 18 years) may be endorsed on the certificate when the original application is approved.

Major international investors and owners of residences valued at $1.5 million or more, receive speedy consideration for permanent residency permits.

Building Your Dream Home

Questions you might have about building in The Bahamas

Building Permit

You will need to obtain approval from the Government. You can apply for a building permit issued by the Ministry of Works. A local architect or engineer would be able to assist you with this.

Building Professionals

There are good, qualified architects, contractors and engineers available in The Bahamas. Most architects in the Bahamas were schooled either in the United States, Canada or the United Kingdom and have international accreditations. There is a local licensing Board for architects.

The leading contractors are often civil engineers with international accreditations or have certified engineers on staff. Many of the smaller contractors are products of a good apprentice system and are very adept and skilled at efficiently carrying out residential construction. Civil, mechanical and electrical engineers in the Bahamas, like the architects - were schooled in other countries and hold international accreditations from those respective countries and must also have a license issued by their respective Local Boards.

More questions you might have about building

Local Financing

There are options for local financing. Normally that requires a 40% down payment of the value and the funds are given in US$.

Building Costs

On average you can count on the cost of building In The Bahamas being much higher than a similar Home in south Florida. This is mainly due to import duty, freight and delivery cost to site.
